

After Mayra graduated from Smith College where she majored in Dance and Sociology, she became a faculty member at Brookline High School teaching dance and yoga to focus on engaging the community through movement and arts. She has performed with numerous dance companies in the Northeast and studied with luminaries such as Mark Morris and Paul Taylor. She joined beheard.world in 2017 as an artist and activist.